NEW EARTHQUAKES ROCK MEXICO

Tomorrow Is Picnic Day

City to Close for Occasion

A crowd expected to surpass last year's record attendance will head for Kennywood Park tomorrow for the annual Monessen Community Picnic.

The annual outing will leave Monessen a deserted town as public offices and business establishments will close down for the day. Closed will be the City building, Post Office, Public Library and banks.

Fred C. Stockus, general chairman, said all indications point to a record crowd, adding that the sale of amusement tickets in Monessen this year is "way ahead" of last year. Round-trip bus tickets have also been selling at a rapid pace, he said.

The chairmen urged residents to purchase their amusement tickets in Monessen rather than at the park. If purchased here, a strip of seven tickets costs only 25 cents. At the park, it costs 42 cents per strip.

Buses Leave Here

The first bus will leave at 9:30 a.m. from Fourth St. and Donner Ave. Other buses will leave until 1:30 p.m. Return trips will begin at 7 p.m. and end at 10:45 p.m. Round-trip fare is 90 cents for children and $1.50 for adults.

A full day of activities has been planned by the committee, beginning with a lollipop hunt for children at 10 a.m. Also on tap are free entertainment acts, Little League baseball game, scramble for $25 in pennies and drawings for awards.

Over $1,000 in merchandise awards will be given by the Chamber of Commerce. Persons holding tickets for the merchandise awards are to deposit stubs in a barrel marked "Merchandise Awards" which will be located near the park restaurant.

Five bicycles will also be awarded. Numbered stubs from the bottom of a strip of amusement tickets will be used to determine winners. These, too, are to be deposited in a special barrel located near the main restaurant. Stockus cautioned ticket holders to make certain they deposit the right stubs in the right barrels.

The bicycles have been donated by Mellon Bank, First Federal Savings and Loan Association, Pittsburgh Steel Federal Credit Union, A & P, and Thorofare.

Stockus said that Kennywood Park is ideal for both adults and children. Adults have a wealth of amusement rides they can enjoy.

As for the children in Kiddieland, there are duplicates of most of the park's large and thrilling rides, scaled down to small children's size.

Such rides as the Little Turn-

Find New Evidence In Airplane Blast

BARSTOW, Calif. (UP) — An insurance investigator reportedly has handed the FBI "new evidence" indicating the possibility that dynamite may have caused the mystery blast aboard a Western airliner.

A heavily-insured passenger was lost 10,000 feet over the California desert in the explosion.

The investigator, who identified himself as with one of the insurance companies probing the incident, disclosed Sunday night that he had uncovered the evidence and turned his findings over to the FBI.

FBI agents refused to confirm or deny the report. The FBI already had entered the probe to determine if federal laws against setting off explosives aboard a plane may have been violated by Saul F. Binstock, 62, retired Canoga Park, Calif., jeweler.

District Jeweler

Binstock had operated jewelry stores in Pittsburgh, Gretnsburg, Ellwood City and Indiana, Pa., before moving to the West Coast in 1948.

Binstock's body was found in the desert Friday, the day after the explosion ripped a hole in a Convair plane carrying 12 other passengers and three crewmen. The plane managed to make an emergency landing at George Air Force Base despite the hole.

Binstock had taken out two flight policies totaling $125,000 before leaving Burbank Calif., for Las Vegas, Nev. He was returning from the gambling resort when the blast took place in the lavatory of the plane.

The FBI confirmed Saturday that an unexploded blasting cap was found in the lavatory of the plane, along with what appeared to be burned toilet tissue. Binstock reportedly had entered the lavatory shortly after the Los Angeles bound airliner took off from Las Vegas.

Nurse Plunges From Bridge

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (UP)—Mrs. Josephine White Tupi, 44, a Pittsburgh nurse, was killed Sunday in a plunge from the Fort Steuben Bridge to the Ohio River 240 feet below.

Her body was recovered Sunday night after 15 boats had dragged the river more than nine hours.

Relatives in Pittsburgh could give no reason why Mrs. Tupi would want to take her life or even why she had come to Steubenville.

Authorities listed the death as suicide.

Mrs. Tupi wore a white nurse's uniform and a black coat when she leaped from the span. A piece of paper bearing her name and address was pinned to her clothing.

Dulles in London For Talks

LONDON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles flies here today from Canada to try to avert the threatened breakdown in the five-power disarmament talks. Informed sources said he would seek direct contacts with Russia.

It was considered certain Dulles would confer privately with Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin, and there was widespread speculation Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko might hasten here from Moscow for a big four foreign ministers conference.

Dulles, traveling on personal orders from President Eisenhower, flew from Ottawa where he discussed the American "open skies" disarmament inspection plan with Prime Minister John Diefenbaker. The plan is a major part of the U.S. disarmament proposals.

The emphasis was on disarmament because the United Nations five-nations subcommittee must report back to the General Assembly by Aug. 1. British sources believed Dulles would discuss the Oman and Cyprus situations with Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd.

Election Problems

French sources thought Dulles might also take up the Algerian and German election problems with French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau.

What Dulles might have to say to Zorin—or Gromyko—remained a mystery in London. All but one point of the new U.S. disarmament plan has been presented by Harold E. Stassen. Details of the remaining item—open skies—have been negotiated in detail with America's allies.

It was believed Dulles might outline the new open skies plan in the conference himself as a sign to the world of American desire to reach a first step disarmament agreement. His talks with Diefenbaker lent weight to this belief since that was the chief topic of the Ottawa talks.

The London Daily Mirror, taking note of speculation Gromyko might fly here, recalled that Russia demanded last February that the foreign ministers attend the conference. It also was noted that the British foreign minister began sitting in on the talks early in July.

'Loafers' Gang Broken Up; Four Girls Arrested

Monessen police broke up a gang of "loafers" at the intersection of Ninth St. and Knox Ave. Saturday night about 9:45 and took four teenage girls into custody when they refused to obey police orders to disperse.

According to reports, police were called by residents in the area who complained of the racket being made by a group of about 20 boys and girls at the intersection.

Police ordered the group to disperse and then left the scene. They returned a few minutes later find four girls still at the intersection.

When the girls again refused to leave, police took them to the police station and called their parents.

The girls, ranging from 14 to 16 years were released into the custody of their parents after being reprimanded.

Civil Rights Battle Along Party Lines

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Senate fight over a jury trial amendment to the civil rights bill shaped up further today along party lines.

With some exceptions, Republicans generally followed President Eisenhower's lead in opposing it, although not quite as solidly aligned Democrats generally supported it.

Opponents of the amendment fought to keep any more northern Democrats from going over to its support. Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) was the latest to break away and at least one or two others were expected to follow.

The Democratic - sponsored amendment would provide jury trials in criminal but not civil contempt cases arising from violations of court-ordered protection of Negro voting rights.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, GOP floor whip, predicted the proposal would be rejected "by a very close vote." He said that "not more than three or four Republicans" will vote for it and not less than seven or eight Democrats will oppose it.

Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.) hoped to offset gains of the amendment's backers by proposing that any jury trial provision include a safeguard that negroes not be excluded from southern juries.

Dunbar Youth Burned Badly On Saturday

A Dunbar youth was reported in fair condition today at Connellsville Hospital after a narrow brush with death.

Ronald Fetsko, 18 turned into a human torch Saturday afternoon when his clothing caught fire.

According to authorities, Fetsko was working with an acetylene torch on a scrapped car at a Leisenring junk yard. Fumes in the supposedly empty gas tank exploded and showered him with flame and chunks of metal.

Fetsko rolled on the ground in an effort to extinguish the flames. A witness, Frank Bloom, covered the youth with a blanket.

Fetsko suffered burns of the arms, legs and chest and a deep cut of the right leg.

Wallet Stolen From Parked Car

George Walkaly, of Monessen, told police over the weekend that an unidentified youth stole a wallet containing $140 from his car while it was parked in front of the Russian Club at 211 Schoonmaker Ave., where he is a steward.

Walkaly said that some boys in the vicinity told him they saw a teenager take the wallet from the car, remove the money and then throw the wallet into a sewer.

The wallet, containing important cards and papers, was "fished" out of the sewer by one of the informants.

Loss of Life Is High; Hundreds Hurt, Missing

MEXICO CITY (UP) — Minor new shocks added early today to the terror wrought by Mexico's worst earthquake in 48 years. Loss of life was high from destroyed buildings and from floods, fires and landslides spawned by the temblors.

The known dead was 46 with some 600 persons injured and dozens missing. The death toll increased as thousands of volunteer rescue workers dug through the debris of homes and apartment houses in Mexico City, the hardest hit in the 160,000 square mile area rocked by the quakes.

Another 114 persons were reported killed, but the reports were unconfirmed. A spokesman for the governor of Michoacan State on the Pacific Ocean west of Mexico City reported 72 drowned in floods, but Mexico's minister of hydraulic resources said the reports were "inaccurate."

City Hard Hit

A breakdown on casualties showed 35 dead and 11 missing in Mexico City, eight known dead at Chilpancingo, two at Acapulco and one at Ayutla, near Cuernevaca.

There were 72 reported but unconfirmed deaths in Michoacan State, 35 at Huamustitlan in Guerrero State just south of Mexico City and seven at Ixmiquilpan in Hidalgo State just north of Mexico.

At least 30 temblors rocked the countryside, beginning early Sunday morning with a major shock that toppled brand new apartment houses in Mexico City and sent residents and tourists into the streets in their night clothes.

Many prayed in the streets, and churches were thronged Sunday as they had never been in years.

Volunteers Search Ruins

The death toll in Mexico City itself was put at 35 with 11 missing and more than 300 injured. The Red Cross and fire department mustered thousands of volunteers to search ruined homes for more victims. The army guarded downtown stricken areas against looting.

The capital city, with a population of 2,300,000 was hardest hit in the quake which was strongly felt as far north as Monterrey and as far south as Tehuantepec. Government seismologists placed the epicenter near Acapulco.

One of the most terrifying sights for the superstitious was the fall of an angel from the 90-foot high marble independence column on the Paseo de la Reforma in the heart of the city. Fall of the great gilt and bronze figure was feared by many to be an omen of further ill fortune.

Authorities warned that the marble column itself might tumble and the area was roped off.

Mexico City, a place of modernistic office buildings and apartments and ragged and crowded slum districts, took a terrible beating. The heaviest loss of life was reported in the first three minutes

Rev. John Gaspar Leaves St. Mary's Church Tomorrow

The Rev. John Gaspar yesterday announced from the pulpit that he has been transferred from St. Mary's Greek Catholic Church in Monessen to St. Mary's Greek Catholic Church in Mansville, N.J.

Pastor here for seven years, Father Gaspar will be succeeded by the Rev. Andrew Parvensky, of St. Eugene's Greek Catholic Church in Cleveland, Ohio.

The transfer, effective tomorrow was made by the Most Rev. Bishop Nicholas T. Elko, of Pittsburgh.

In his announcement yesterday, Father Gaspar told of the improvements made at the church since he began his pastorate here in 1950. He also expressed appreciation to the congregation for "your splendid cooperation."

He said today,

"I have made many friends during my duties here. The church has a very progressive congregation. I hope my new assignment is equally pleasant."

Father Parvensky will take over his new duties at 6 p.m. tomorrow.

One Accident In Area Despite Heavy Traffic

Despite the heavy traffic over the weekend, only one accident involving district persons happened on nearby highways, it was learned today.

Mrs. Lena Vaccaro, 33, of R. D. 2, Belle Vernon, and her 20-month-old son, Dennis, were treated in Uniontown Hospital Saturday evening following a two-car accident at the intersection of Fayette St. and Mt. Vernon Ave. Other details are lacking.

State police at Belle Vernon reported that most main highways in the area were jammed with vehicles, particularly between 7 and 11 o'clock last night.

Cars traveling north on Route 51 last night about 10 o'clock were bumper-to-bumper for almost three miles.

21 Arrested in Racial Battle

CHICAGO (UP) — Twenty-one persons today faced misdemeanor charges in boys court in the wake of a racial battle in a city park in which 23 persons were injured by flying bats, bottles and bricks.

Sgt. Joseph McCabe of the South Chicago Police District said a number of adults were in the group rounded up during the melee Sunday, but since most of them were teenagers, all will go to boys court.

McCabe described the situation today as "quiet" but added that trouble in the area "might flare up again." He said a police emergency plan still is in effect in the district.

About 300 persons engaged in the brawl Sunday, and about 3,000 curiosity seekers were attracted to the scene.

Man Hit by Taxi

James John Oats, 66, of 209 Fifth St., Charleroi, was treated for minor lacerations of the scalp at Charleroi-Monessen Hospital after being struck by a Charleroi taxi at Fifth St. and McKean Ave. in Charleroi late Saturday night.

Operator of the cab was John Parola, of Coal Center.

Food Registration

New recipients only will register for surplus food on August 8 from 11 a. m. to noon at the CIO Building, it was announced today.

Guatemala Elections Planned

GUATEMALA CITY (UP) — Guatemalan authorities said today the Communist guard who assassinated President Carlos Castillo Armas Friday hoped his death would restore pro-Communist ex-President Juan J. Arevalo to power.

They published excerpts from a propaganda-loaded diary kept by the killer which showed him to be an avid fan of Radio Moscow.

Grieving men, women and children by the thousand flocked to Guatemala's "white house' today to pay their last respects to the slain president, who skyrocketed from obscurity to power to death in three short years.

Police acting under the stern "state of seige" emergency regulations imposed following the President's assassination rounded up about 100 persons suspected of complicity in his death. The names of the prisoners were not immediately made public.

Vice President Luis A. Gonzales Lopez, who took over the presidency after Castillo was slain, announced at once that elections for a new president would be held within four months.

Saturday night, however, Gonzalez announced that the decree ordering new elections will remain in suspense as long as the state of siege is in force—a period now set at 30 days, which might be extended indefinitely.

The killer, Romeo Vasquez Sanchez, took his own life a minute or two after he shot the president, when he found that loyal guards had cut off his escape.

TRIBUTE TO CASTILLO ARMAS — Mourners pay their last respects to President Castillo Armas, victim of an assassin's bullet, as the body lies in state in the National Palace in Guatemala City. The 43-year-old president was slain by Romero Vasquez Sanchez, a palace guard, who later committed suicide.

Robert B. Anderson Takes Over As U.S. Secretary of Treasury

WASHINGTON (UP)—Former Navy Secretary Robert B. Anderson today took office as the nation's 54th secretary of the Treasury.

The new secretary refused to commit himself to any hard-and-fast course of carrying out financial policy in the days ahead as the successor of George M. Humphrey.

He said it would be "conjectural for me to try to say precisely what I will or will not do, or exactly how I will try to meet situations which may arise." He said he will be guided by "what will best contribute to the general welfare of our country and our economy. . . . at any given time."

After issuing his statement, Anderson turned salesman and sold Humphrey a $100 government savings bond. Humphrey had been forbidden by law to own any government securities while in office and did not become eligible to buy a bond until Anderson was sworn in.

President Eisenhower, who held the Bible with which the new secretary took the oath, said "You will find here a warm welcome, as you know." Then he turned to Humphrey with a grin and said. "George, this seems to be our last official visit. Now, you're just an ex-bureaucrat."

Robert B. Anderson

Anderson was sworn in by Associate Justice Warren Burger of the District of Columbia court of appeals.

Only an hour earlier the Senate Finance Committee resumed its investigation of the nation's financial structure by summoning Treasury Undersecretary Randolph Burgess. He faced tough Democratic questioning on the Treasury Department's decision last week to refinance part of the huge national debt at 4 per cent interest—the highest interest rate offered in a quarter century.

Democrats said the high interest rate proved their charges that the administration's "tight money" policies aimed at checking inflation were hurting the nation.

Anderson at confirmation hearings before senators, hinted he will chart his own course. He made clear he is not irrevocably tied to the tight money policy which caused Humphrey's major head-

Asphalt Plant To Be Built Along River

A "temporary" asphalt plant will go into operation around August 1 in Vesta.

The plant, located along the Monongahela River, will supply about 800 tons of asphalt for a six-mile stretch of the Express Highway between Bentleyville and Zediker station in Washington County.

About six employes will staff the plant, which will operate for five months, as a subsidiary of the Trumbell Construction and Asphalt Co., of Homestead.

Supplies will be shipped to the plant by barge. Trucks will then take the finished asphalt to the highway site.

aches. But he said that is in the wait-and-see future.

The 47-year-old Texan did emphasize that this final accounting will be to the people.

"I have made no commitments; I have been asked for none," he said, "and I would feel under no obligation to anyone, except to the people, in the discharge of my duties."

This was reminiscent of Anderson's attitude when he rose from secretary of the Navy to undersecretary of Defense after Eisen- didn't know much about ships but hower took office in 1953." He he whipped Navy brass into line when the President called for a "new look" in defense.

Anderson isn't new to money. He was once vice-chairman of the Dallas Federal Reserve Bank. He also had managed the 300-million dollar Waggoner estate which covers six Texas counties and deals in oil, cattle, etc.

ing the legislation to overturn the decision.

Shelters: Supporters of a bill to construct a nationwide system of atomic shelters said they have shelved the bill until next year. Members of the House Government Operations Committee, which recommended the bill last Monday, said privately they have shunted it aside because it was apparent the legislation could not be approved at this session. They said the economy sentiment against such a multi - billion dollar program was too great.

Disarmament: Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) urged that President Eisenhower personally go before the U.N. General Assembly to tell the U.S. side of the story if the London disarmament conference fails. Humphrey, chairman of a Senate disarmament subcommittee, said such an appearance would greatly assure the 80 nations of the assembly that the United States is seeking a "just and lasting peace." He said he is "anything but optimistic now" that Russia is sincere in wanting to reach a disarmament agreement.

Opposition in Argentine Gets Many Votes

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—Mounting returns from Sunday's constitutional elections indicated today that many Argentines oppose the generals and admirals who ousted ex-President Juan D. Peron.

Returns at 3 a.m. gave the principal pro - government party 1,097,451 votes, and most of another 1,280,664 votes credited only to "other parties" were believed to favor the government. Against this vote 2,012,542 ballots expressing opposition in one form or another.

It would take only about a quarter of the "other party" vote to give the opposition a majority.

It appeared virtually certain, however, that parties favorable to the government will dominate the 205-man convention which is to rewrite Argentina's 104-year-old Constitution. More than half the anti-government ballots were blanks, cast as a protest by the outlawed Peronist Party and other opposition groups.

The number of blank opposition ballots nearly equalled the total cast for the pro-government "popular" faction of the Radical Party, which was running ahead of any other single party. The Radicals' anti - government "intransigent" faction was second.

Despite rain, snow and temperatures as low as 24 degrees, an estimated 75 per cent of Argentina's 9,726,520 voters trooped to the polls. In the western mountains, some voters showed up on skis. In Jujuy, a 105-year-old woman came in on muleback to vote.

Troops, armed in some cases with tommyguns, stood guard at the precinct stations. No violence was reported.

Jets Fail to Beat The Speed of Sound

WASHINGTON (UP) — The most modern jet interceptors in Air Force service failed to beat the speed of sound in a contest widely ballyhooed in advance as "history's first supersonic race."

Slow tail winds were blamed for the inability of six F102 Delta Dagger jets to dash between Chicago and nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Md., Sunday faster than sound in the Bendix Trophy Race.

Though the flight was not up to advance billing, a new Bendix race record of 679 miles per hour was set by Capt. Kenneth D. Chandler, 33, of Compton, Calif. He streaked over the 619.73-mile course from O'Hare Airport to Andrews in 54 minutes, 45.5 seconds.

The record drew thunderous applause from an officially estimated 75,000 people gathered at Andrews for an Air Force demonstration of strength in honor of the service's "golden anniversary".

Chandler's speed was 44.5 miles an hour slower than the new transcontinental record set by Marine Maj. John Glenn Jr. in a Navy Crusader fighter on July 16 over a course almost four times as long. Glenn refueled in flight three times between Los Angeles and New York. He had light tail winds at the beginning of his flight but then ran into crosswinds and headwinds the rest of the way.

In Sunday's second major race, Maj. Peter R. Phillipy of McKees Rocks, Pa., set a new record of 638 miles an hour in an F84F Thunderstreak in the annual Ricks Memorial Race for Air National Guard pilots. He defeated 11 competitors in the run from Fresno, Calif., to Andrews Air Base. They landed for refueling at Tucson, Ariz., Dallas, Texas, and Atlanta, Ga.

Wheeling Bombings Mystery

WHEELING, W. Va. (UP)—Police today investigated two mysterious bombings which shook the main business district of Wheeling and nearby Wheeling Island early Sunday.

Authorities said they believed the blasts might have been the result of a possible pinball machine "war" in this area.

Police said the first blast went off in the four-story Pythian Building in the heart of the business district. It ripped off a third story elevator door, shattered nearby office windows and left a huge hole in a floor.

The building is owned by Charles Maroon, of Bridgeport, Ohio a pinball machine distributor.

Second Blast

About 15 minutes later another explosion occurred at the Downs Grill on Wheeling Island, also owned by Maroon. Police said the blast shattered the front of the establishment and caused minor damage in five homes.

Authorities said that three weeks ago an explosion was reported at the Tri - State amusement Co. owned by Max Mishne, another pinball distributor. The blast destroyed the building and equipment inside.

Another dynamite bomb failed to go off earlier in a building owned by Maroon in Bridgeport.

National Bridge Tournament in Pittsburgh Play

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The team of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Lazard and Mrs. Harriet Feldman, all of New Orleans, and Allan Leeds, of New York, held a half-game lead today at the halfway mark of the national masters mixed teams championship play of the American Contract Bridge League summer tournament.

(Three Belle Vernon residents are taking part in the bridge tournament. They are Mrs. Frederic Feldman and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Ferguson.)

The team scored 36½ matches in the first two rounds of play, in which a field of 116 masters groups participated yesterday. The field was cut in half for the final two rounds tonight and Tuesday night.

Two teams were tied for second place. They were the favored team of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Solomon, Philadelphia, and Ruth Sherman and Richard Kahn, New York, and the team of Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Michaels and Alvin Roth, all of Washington, and Mr. and Mrs. John Kunkel, Harrisburg, Pa.

An Illinois team—Ronald R. Walaitis, Cicero; Lewis J. Kaplan, Chicago, and Joan and Arnold Levy, River Forest—won the national non-masters team-of-four championship by winning 36 matches in two rounds of play yesterday. The team of Don R. Murray and Ernest J. Weisenbacker, Pittsburgh and Mr. and Mrs. James Heehan, Youngstown, Ohio, was second with 35 matches.

Drought Relief Slim in East

By UNITED PRESS

No break was in sight today in a near-record Northeast drought that has resulted in crop losses estimated in the tens of millions of dollars.

Scattered showers again were expected to fall over the New York City metropolitan area and parts of New Jersey and Connecticut. But forecasters said the anticipated rainfall would not be enough to satisfy farmers plagued by the worst drought the Northeast has suffered in years.

An early rise in prices for fruits and vegetables was predicted as a result of the widespread crop damage. And, unless soaking rains fall soon, additional millions of dollars in crop damage is anticipated.

'HID' $57,000 — United Textile Workers President Anthony Valente tells labor racket probers in Washington that the reason he and Secretary-Treasurer Lloyd Klenert used $57,000 in union funds to purchase Washington homes was that they wanted to conceal the union's money from a flood of new members. At that time the union was AFL and the new members, he said, were from the then rival CIO organization.

Police Chief In Masontown To Fight Case

Pete Smargie, Masontown's demoted and suspended police chief, said through his attorneys today that he'll go into court unless a Civil Service Board rules in his favor.

Smargie was demoted by borough council on July 8 and suspended for 90 days for "neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming an officer."

He appealed the council action, but his attorneys refused to permit any defense witnesses to testify during Civil Service Commission hearings last week.

A Commission spokesman said that the group will have to rule on the case after hearing only prosecution witnesses.

Smargie's attorneys plan to argue that council acted illegally in the suspensions. Charges were brought against Smargie on June 14, but not acted upon until July 8. According to the defense, such charges must be considered within ten days.

Another Masontown policeman, Thomas McWilliams, was suspended with Chief Smargie. McWilliams, now a patient in Uniontown Hospital, has apparently resigned from the force due to ill health.

GOP Attacks Leader Over Welfare Dept.

HARRISBURG (UP) — Republican leaders have used the operations of the state Welfare Department as a springboard for sharp attacks on the Democratic state administration of Gov. George M. Leader.

State Auditor General Charles C. Smith charged in a weekend statement the governor was "deliberately withholding a final accounting of expenditures in the last fiscal period which ended May 31.

"There can only be one reason for this long delay," Smith said. "Gov. George M. Leader is permitting the Welfare Department to run up bills against the last biennium appropriations long after the lawful authority to do so has expired."

Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom described as "a lot of political hocus-pocus" the plans of Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro to fire welfare workers because of budget cuts by the GOP-controlled Legislature.

Bloom said Shapiro wanted to create job vacancies "to be filled next year when Governor Leader plans to run for the U.S. Senate."

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — The Communists demanded Sunday that the U.N. command immediately withdraw American F-100 Sabrejets from South Korea. The Allies rejected the demand.

Waynesburg Rain Is Expected to Fall Again Today

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (UP) — Residents of this farming center in the rolling hills of southwestern Pennsylvania will bet you doughnuts or dollars it will rain here today.

The odds are with the natives. Rain has fallen here on July 29 for 72 of the past 80 years for which records have been kept. The tradition stretches even further back.

The day has become one of festivity for the townfolk. They began gathering in the community square, which dates back to colonial times, at midnight to await the rain they felt certain would fall.

On a hot July 29 in post-Civil War days, Waynesburg druggist Bill Alisson was talking to a farmer from nearby Wind Ridge about the drought which gripped the area.

"Its a darn funny thing, but it'll rain today," the farmer declared. "It always does on July 29."

Within a few hours a shower hit the town. Alisson noted it in his day book. The first miss was in 1880. When the druggist died, his brother, Ab, took over the keeping of the record.

In 1927, druggist Byron Daily became the official "rain day" observer. He started the custom of betting a hat that it would rain on the day. He lost only once, in 1930, the first dry July 29 in 50 years.

Daily's brother, John, now carries on the tradition.

At least 15 persons were killed in traffic accidents during the weekend, 9 of them on Sunday.

Three mishaps accounted for 8 deaths. The worst of these was a two-car collision which killed four persons near Bellefonte.

The accidents:

Mercer: Two women were killed Sunday when an automobile pulled onto Route 19 from a rural road and collided with another car. Mrs Josephine Godina, 50, Transfer RD 1, Mercer County, and Irene Hopkins, 56, Sharpsburg, Allegheny County, were dead on arrival at Greenville Hospital.

Aliquippa: Two women were killed Sunday when an automobile crashed into a tree after failing to make a curve on Chapel Road north of here. Dead on arrival at Aliquippa Hospital were Florence May Betha, 26, and Rudy Hardrick, 24, both of Aliquippa.

York: Ronald E. Shermeyer, 16, of nearby Hellam, was killed on Sunday night when he lost control of his motorcycle and was thrown into a mailbox post on the Druk Valley Road north of Hellam.

Reading: Ralph R. Schneider 16, Reading, was killed Sunday when his automobile struck a pole eight miles north of Reading.

Clarion: Mrs. Lillian Marshall, 74, Little Rock, Ark., was killed in a collision of two automobiles at the intersection of Routes 36 and 68 at Leeper, 12 miles north of Clarion. The cars were operated by Wilma Marshall, Erie, daughter-in-law of the dead woman, and Henry F. Parker, 46, Tarentum.

Bellefonte: Four persons were killed and two children injured critically Saturday in a head-on automobile crash on mountainous Route 95, 13 miles east of ere. Killed were David Immel, 28, of Rebersburg; his wife, Gladys, 27; Kay L. Breon, 18, also Rebersburg, and Jack A. Light, 19, Centre Hall. The two Immel children, Daivd Jr., 6, and Dennis, 4, were taken to Centre County Hospital.

Cement Workers To Vote Today On Wage Offer

By UNITED PRESS

About 400 union members at a Universal Atlas Cement plant in Pennsylvania's Lehigh Valley will vote today on an agreement that could provide a pattern for ending the crippling nationwide cement strike.

The agreement between the company and representatives of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers Union was reached Saturday night at the plant near Allentown, Pa.

The walkout by about 16,000 union members is in its third month at some Eastern plants. The strike has cut cement production by 75 per cent and idled thousands of employes in allied construction industries.

Another Universal Atlas plant at Waco, Tex., was threatened with a walkout Wednesday unless a settlement is reached in negotiations there. The plant employs about 130 union workers.

The Allentown settlement calls for a 13-cent hourly wage increase, retroactive to May 1, improved vacation benefits, premium pay for Sunday work and double time for work after 12 consecutive hours.

Important Step Is Taken Toward Atomic Fight Against Cancer

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UP)—An important step has been taken toward applying the working principle of the atomic bomb to the destruction of cancer in people.

The next steps may turn out to be impossible but this step which has been taken is, at least, a chemical marvel. It permits uranium-238 to be put into living mice without doing the mice any apparent harm.

Dr. Robert W. Bases of New York University College of Medicine made uranium seemingly harmless for his mice by attaching the electrically charged atoms of its molecule to part of the molecule of a basic chemical compound of blood.

Now, uranium as a more or less pure element acts as a poison inside the human—or mouse—body, as other metallic elements do. It kills primarily by destroying the kidneys. Furthermore the amount of uranium needed to kill quickly one mouse out of any two is precisely established.

Bases injected his altered molecules into seven mice, in nine times this "lethal dose." At the end of 30 days, all seven were not only alive but healthily growing. This result he duplicated in two other sets of mice.

But uranium in the same amounts but in the chemical form of acetate or nitrate killed all 19 of his "control" mice within three days.

The livers of these 19 were all depleted of a vital substance, and their kidney tubes were destroyed in the manner typical of uranium poisoning. But the livers and kidneys of mice who had gotten their uranium in the form devised by Bases, revealed not a sign of abnormality.

So far the point is that Bases succeeded in getting uranium into mice without harming them. The next point is that the compound which electrically charged uranium atoms joined was the porphyrin that is found in hemin, which will sound confusing until it is explained.

The porphyrins are derived from pyrrole, a most basic chemical compound since from it are derived such fundamentals as proteins and chlorophyll. A porphyrin is the basis of hemin, a substance found in blood.

But for the purposes of Bases' continuing experiments the importance of porphyrin is that when injected into living bodies it seems to concentrate in tumors and inflamed tissues of those bodies. So if you can combine radioactive uranium 235 with porphyrin, the latter may be the vehicle which will carry the uranium into a cancer.

If that happens, then you could "bombard" the cancer with "neutrons" from an atomic reactor. neutrons are particles of atomic nuclei which have no electrical charge. For that reason they can get into and "split" atomic nuclei, such as those of uranium-235, and then you have fission, the principle of the atomic bomb.

Notice all the "ifs." In his report to the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Bases was most conservative, and everyone else should be, too. But "if fission were to take place in a tumor, the tumor might then be destroyed," he said.

He now is studying how his chemical "complex" behaves inside other animals, some of which have tumors. He still is making sure that it is not poisonous. If these new tests confirm the first ones, then "use of uranium porphyrins in neutron capture therapy of human tumors might be feasible," he reported.

Loan Firm Manager Faces Multiple Charges

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — City police and the FBI were to charge a savings and loan company manager today with arson and embezzlement after he took an estimated $30,000, set fire to the vault and then shot himself.

Norman VanArtsdalen, 41, of Springfield, Pa., will be arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Henry Carr when he recovers from the superficial bullet wound in his left shoulder. They said $22,600 of the money was recovered from the home of VanArtsdalen's friends.

The case started when VanArtsdalen, an employe of the Marconi Savings and Loan Association for 10 years, opened the office Sunday morning to catch up on back work. Two tellers were to join him later.

Police said VanArtsdalen opened the vault, turned on the air conditioner in the basement and returned to the first floor. Then, he said, he was "struck" from behind. When he regained consciousness, he told police, the fire was raging in the vault. He called to a passing truck driver who sounded the alarm.

When police arrived, they said they found VanArtsdalen standing outside the vault and took him to a nearby hospital for treatment of the wound. They said a .22 caliber revolver was on the floor of the vault and that the fire destroyed bank records, papers and currency before it was extinguished. Authorities declined to estimate the value of the damaged and burned currency.

Carl Hennrich, special agent in charge of the FBI, and police Capt. Albert Trimmer said $22,600 in small bills were wrapped in a sealed package and taken by VanArtsdalen Saturday to the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Mills, in suburban Havertown.

They said Mills told them VanArtsdalen claimed the package was a "birthday gift" for his wife, Harriet, and asked them to hold it for him. Hennrich said the Mills couple was unaware of the contents.

Henrich said VanArtsdalen would be charged with abstraction and embezzlement under Federal law and arson and embezzlement under state law.

A Welcome Spirit

THE ORGANIZED downtown merchants of Monessen have acted wisely in endorsing an experimental ban on parking along one side of Donner avenue. While there is no assurance the new regulation will have the desired effect of relieving traffic congestion, it seems reasonable to expect that it will. It is encouraging to note in this, however, that the merchants see some need for change and that they are willing to accommodate themselves to it.

This state of mind is overdue, and because it is late in coming it is going to have to be more prevalent from now on if the downtown business district is to keep its place in the sun.

One does not have to be a very keen observer to note that residential growth in Monessen in the post-war years has outstripped business district growth. While homes and new families have spread themselves broadside over the hills and threaten to use up literally all the available homesites in the corporate limits, the central downtown business district is still largely confined to the area in which was conducted the business of thirty years ago.

In exceptional cases individual merchants have improved their facilities and are prepared for and are doing business not only with this expanding Monessen market but with outside customers as well. They are, as we have said, exceptional.

While the downtown area is the logical place for our central shopping area, it cannot continue as such unless it keeps pace with the community. The selection, the service, the appointments, the accommodations have to be in keeping with the size of the market which is building here. Otherwise the customers will go where these things are available.

The downtown merchants will be having other suggestions put to them for the improvement of the district. They will do well to receive them thoughtfully not only in the light of today's business but in the light of tomorrow's and the years to come.

Disarmament Doubtful

CHANCES look slimmer for any real agreement on disarmament. This is shown in Secretary of State Dulles' latest "appeal" to the Soviet Union to make new concessions before nuclear weapons become available to "the pettiest and most irresponsible dictator".

Dulles' statement was obviously a propaganda effort, a move to counter the Russian attacks on the United States for allegedly blocking agreements. It was evidence that top American officials believe that the talks have changed from serious attempts to agree into speeches aimed primarily at swaying world opinion.

There has been much discussion of the proposition that Khrushchev and his henchmen want a period of peace and quiet so they can develop their own country and satisfy the Russian people who are described as restless under the austere circumstances of Soviet life.

If there is any truth in this, Soviet leaders may find it necessary to make some new concessions.

It is not entirely coincidence that the rise of Marshal Zhukov to a position of greater power in Russia occurred just before Russian disarmament delegate Valerian Zorin adopted his new "stiff" attitude. It is likely that hukov, being a real military man and not a civilian in uniform, has the typical soldier's attitude toward disarmament. It is that to cut armed forces is dangerous.

If this analysis of the stiffening Russian attitudes is true and if Zhukov is really in a controlling position in the Moscow presidium — two important ifs — then hope that any disarmament agreement will be reached soon cannot be high.

The Labor Inquiry

THE SENATE committee delving into labor rackets is about to look beyond the Teamsters union and broaden the inquiry. Eleven categories of alleged misdeeds in the labor-management field have been tentatively agreed upon. Broader work in the field will continue for about a year and a half.

There is still a division of viewpoint to be worked out. Many members of the committee want to go after the big industrial union leaders who throw their weight in national, state and local politics.

Their prime target is Walter Reuther, head of the United Automobile Workers and CIO bigwig. Their broad charge is that he is exerting power to wreck industries that refuse to bow to his will, principally the Kohler company of Wisconsin.

"Liberals" would bring management into the investigation as much or more so than unions. They are politically tender about unions, large and small, because of their voting power.

The hope is that the investigation will be broad enough to reach some definite conclusions about the public's mistreatment at the hands of either labor or management. The nation and the states can then bring laws to bear where they are required to curb abuses.

Ike Bawls Out Secretary Of Education

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The inside story of the backing-and-filling over the school bill is a sorry one. Though the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, Marion B. Folsom, a former big businessman and director of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce did his best to pass the bill, he actually got bawled out by the President for his pains.

Mr. Pearson

What happened was that Folsom announced to the press early last week that he was confident President Eisenhower would throw his weight behind the school bill. He knew, though he didn't say so, that the President had pulled all sorts of wires to block Hells Canyon, to pass foreign aid and originally to pass a strong civil rights bill. He also knew that the President had gone on record in speech after speech last fall for aid to education, had also backed it in a message to Congress.

So he was sure the President would get on the phone to key Congressional leaders to help pass the bill.

But GOP leader Charlie Halleck of Indiana begged Eisenhower not to support the school bill. The bill had certain compromise aspects worked out by the most loyal Eisenhower Republicans the President has on Capitol Hill — Congressman Peter Frelinghuysen of New Jersey and Sam McConnell of Pennsylvania. But Halleck persuaded Eisenhower to oppose it.

Following Secretary Folsom's statement that he was sure Ike would throw his weight behind the bill, the Cabinet officer was actually summoned to the White House and reprimanded.

On top of this, Eisenhower canceled his regular Wednesday news conference because it would have preceded the scheduled vote in the House and he was sure to be asked about his support of the school bill.

The fact that the school bill lost by only five votes indicates how little push it would have taken from the White House to pass it. The school bill as finally proposed by Ayres of Ohio was Republican-drafted, exactly as Ike had wanted it. After Democratic floor leaders urged acceptance of this Eisenhower version, however, two of Ike's own leaders — Charlie Halleck and Leslie Arends of Illinois — voted against it.

Right after the war, when cars were scarce, Charlie Halleck sported two Cadillacs around Washington. He won the nickname "Two-Cadillac Charlie." But last week when he saw that a school bill might pass, he wanted no new schools for school children. He went over to Congressman Howard Smith of Virginia, leader of the Republican-Dixiecrat coalition, and whispered in his ear. Speaker Sam Rayburn also went over and whispered to Smith. Smith then moved to strike the enacting clause of the school bill. By five votes he won.

For another year the school bill is dead.

Man from Maine

Certain New England Republicans will be secretly pleased if the Democrats take a careful look, or even defeat the confirmation of Fred C. Scribner to be Undersecretary of the Treasury.

Reason is that Scribner once tried to defeat GOP Sen. Margaret Chase Smith; second, Scribner is not an effective Republican.

After the San Francisco convention last year, Scribner, as Republican National Committeeman, announced he was "rolling up his sleeves for a smashing victory in Maine." Result: Maine elected a Democratic Congressman for the first time in years, nearly lost a second Congressman; and in Scribner's own district, Cumberland County, a six-Republican assembly membership was reduced to one Republican and five Democrats.

At San Francisco, incidentally, Scribner had defied a resolution of the Maine GOP convention that Senator Smith's name must be placed in nomination for Vice President and tried to keep her name from being mentioned. He was former campaign manager for Senator Smith's opponent when she surprised the nation by winning in 1948.

Democrats have an excellent excuse to go after Scribner's Senate confirmation on the ground that politics has been mixed with the income tax collecting agency of government. It's traditional that anyone serving in the key and very sensitive post of General Counsel of the Treasury, which was the final say on tax cases, by icily aloof from politics.

However, Scribner stepped from general counsel of the Republican National Committee into the job of General Counsel of the Treasury. Furthermore, he kept his job as GOP National Committeeman from Maine. This is unprecedented.

From Washington—

Lyndon Johnson and 1960

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

On the floor of the Senate this week majority leader Lyndon B. Johnson dramatically took the one step essential to enable him to make a strong bid for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination.

Mr. Drummond

It is not accurate to say that Sen. Johnson, who is the most formidable Democrat in Congress, "announced" his presidential candidacy. He is not avowing that he is a candidate. It is hardly necessary.

What he did was to inform the Senate for the first time that he is "ready and willing to support and vote for" the right-to-vote bill with the single proviso that jury trial be required in cases of criminal injunction — but only in such cases. Since the proposed law would permit the federal government to rely primarily upon civil suits to enforce equal voting rights as the best means of enforcement, jury trial growing out of criminal injunctions will probably be supported by many Northern Republicans and Democrats who do not consider it a serious diluting of the bill.

Simultaneously Mr. Johnson has acted — and acted successfully — to regain the leadership of the Senate coalition from Sen. William F. Knowland, R. of Calif., who up to this week had been in sole command of the pro-civil rights majority.

To Head Coalition

Why do these actions make it possible for Sen. Johnson to become a formidable candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination?

The answer is that the senior Senator from Texas is at one stroke removing from his path the single barrier which, above all others, has made it impracticable for the Democratic party to select a Southerner for its presidential nominee — the barrier of opposition to civil rights legislation, a voting record which would automatically insure his defeat in Northern and Western states he would have to carry to win.

Mr. Johnson now is disclosing that he will support and vote for the civil rights bill which is expected to emerge from the Senate in the next two weeks.

He now is actively taking command of the coalition of Democratic and Republican moderates whose views will almost certainly prevail.

He is taking charge of the Senate in a manner to enable the Democratic party — and himself — to be far more closely identified with the resulting right-to-vote legislation than would otherwise be possible. This will be a boon to the Democratic party as a whole and to the Senator's presidential prospects in particular.

It can always be safely said that Lyndon Johnson knows what he is doing.

This is not to suggest that he is acting expediently. He is acting upon his convictions and I feel sure that his conviction is that it will be the best possible statesmanship — best for the nation, best for disfranchised Negro voters and best for the Democratic party — to produce a moderate-minded right-to-vote law which can command the support of several Southern Senators, namely, Senators Gore and Kefauver of Tennessee, Sen. Yarborough and himself from Texas.

Sen. Johnson's support of a meaningful right-to-vote law is not a violation of his political record; it is consistent with and an extension of that record. At home he has long advocated that Texas abolish its poll tax and in Washington he has sought a constitutional amendment to remove poll taxes in all states. While Negro votes are not necessary to his election in Texas, he consistently receives overwhelming support from Negro districts.

All this does not mean that Mr. Johnson's supporters will find it easy to bring about his presidential nomination. There are many obstacles in the way, but they are no longer insuperable. The fact is that, at this stage certainly, the paths of all other Democartic possibilities are strewn with obstacles.

Sen Johnson's fate, whatever his own wishes, will be greatly affected by the political climate in 1960. If the climate is "moderate and middle-road," then this soft-spoken, hard-thinking Texan could very likely be the Democrat nearest to that prescription.

Communist Hungary in Grip of Terror Reign

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Communist Hungary is in the grip of an intensifying reign of terror.

Men in all walks of life are being arrested in night raids as suspected "counter-revolutionaries".

Communist leaders are saying in speeches that they expect a campaign of sabotage to break out soon.

Mr. McCann

This campaign, they say, will be time to start before the United Nations General Assembly meets in September to consider a report by a special commission on the atrocities commited during the revolt of last fall.

But reports reaching Vienna and other capitals indicate that the entire internal situation is in turmoil.

Internal Dissension

There appears to be serious dissension between the secret police and the army. Factional disputes are still in progress in the Communist Party itself.

Bela Biszku, minister of interior rather than Premier Janos Kadar, seems to be directing the campaign of terror.

Biszku is in charge of the secret police and the red militia.

He disclosed in a speech at the Communist Party congress in June that a campaign to "unmask counter - revolutionary elements in the army is under way."

There is some suspicion that Biszku is trying to gain control of the army and put himself in a position where he, not Kadar, would be Hungary's real leader.

The arrests of "counter-revolutionary" suspects and the purge in the army are being carried out while Red courts are still sentencing men, women and teen-aged boys to prison or to death for complicity in last fall's revolt.

Reveal Sabotage Plan

Interior Minister Biszku said in a speech last Wednesday that "counter - revolutionaries" planned a campaign of sabotage to show the U.N. that "there is still disorder in Hungary and that the population does not support the Communist government."

Next day, Minister of State Gyorgy Marosan said that the government had arrested several hundred "counter - revolutionaries" who planned a revolt.

It is expected that the U.N. Assembly will meet about Sept. 10 to consider the report on atrocities, This will be a special session, in advance of the annual meeting set for Sept. 17.

The Lighter Side—

Government Wants to Pay Out Some $12,000

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—A fellow here has been trying in vain for more than a year to find direct descendants of one of the finest artists ever to hit these shores. The government owes them nearly $12,000.

The artist was Emanuel Ninger. A stocky blue-eyed man with a blond beard and a profile somewhat like that of Gen. U. S. Grant, Ninger came here from Germany in 1882 when he was 35. The ship's manifest listed him, peculiarly, as "sign painter."

He did seek work briefly as a sign painter in Hoboken, N.J., but the employer said he wasn't good enough at it. Ninger didn't need the job, however, because meantime he had put his tremendous talent to work. He and his wife Adelaide eventually bought a farm in Flagtown, N.J., living comfortably with three daughters and a son in a house which had one room set aside for Ninger and his art.

Creates Masterpieces

Working only with pen, ink, and brushes he created masterpieces that later were praised by art critics. His drawing was impressionistic, yet frankly imitative. He imitated money—$20, $50, and $100 bills.

The Secret Service considers his hand drawings the most artistic counterfeits of U.S. notes in currency history. Some of his notes occupy a place of honor, framed to set off their beauty, in the U.S. Secret Service files room in Washington. At his trial, art critics said his work was fine impressionistic art—he made you see things that weren't there.

Lacking a steel graver to work with he couldn't put in certain fine details with his cruder instruments. He got around this by simply leaving them out and suggesting their presence so artfully that even if you looked closely you got the impression they were there

He even left out the tiny words which were carried on bills at the time, saying they were made "at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing." When the Secret Service later asked him why, he replied with pride and dignity: "Because dey didn't make dem."

Enjoyed Success

It has been estimated that Ninger successfully passed between $300 and $400 of this stuff a month for about 17 years (including three years before he came to this country). When the Secret Service finally caught him, they found only $975 in real money in the house.

Folks around Flagtown figured Ninger must have had a lot of gold hidden around the place, and one man who later bought the farm went mad looking for it, according to Murray Teigh Bloom, who has enshrined Ninger in a book just published by Scribners entitled "Money of Their Own."

The book deals with the lives and easy times of 10 master international counterfeiters. Last year when Bloom was working on the Ninger chapter, he discovered that $350 of the real money seized in Ninger's house never was returned to him or his family. Ninger got out of jail in 1900. There is no record of date or place of death.

Bloom tried by local phone, by notices in the New York Times, by letters throughout the country to locate descendants of Emanuel and Adelaide. None stepped forth to claim the money. Bloom says he still would like to find one to tell him what he has coming.

At the 6 per cent compound interest paid on claims against the government, the $350 taken in 1896 when Ninger was arrested now is $11,545.74—and growing fast.

At the White House—

Ike Likes Quiet Vacations

By MERRIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON (UP) — Backstairs at the White House:

If some of the society leaders of Newport, R.I., are harboring any notions of possibly snaring the President and Mrs. Eisenhower as guests later this summer, they can stop dreaming.

During the three summers Eisenhower and his wife visited Denver, Mrs. Eisenhower's home town, they attended only one social function per season—a reception given by the officers of Lowry Air Force Base where the President had his summer offices.

Furthermore, ranking members of the Eisenhower staff rarely attended social affairs outside their own immediate circle of associates.

It probably will not be much different when and if the Eisenhowers start their vacation at Newport. They'll stick rather close to their naval base quarters, knowing full well that if they accept one invitation to a private affair out in town, the social flood gates will open.

So, if the tiara set of Bailey Beach wants a good look at the President, they'll have to hang around the golf course or watch him when he lands at the airport.

Augusta, Ga., offers another good guide to the probable performance of the first family when and if they take up residence in Newport. The Eisenhowers have made more than a dozen trips to Augusta and they have yet to accept a social invitation "out in town." They stay strictly within the confines of the Augusta National Golf Club except on Sundays when they go to church.

This sort of behavior is not peculiar to Eisenhower. Most recent presidents have taken the same attitude. When former President Truman made his many visits to Key West, Fla., he stuck to the naval base except for occasional auto rides.

The Lincoln Motor Co. is building a new "bubbletop" limousine for the President.

Some members of the Gettysburg, Pa., country club are reportedly irate about finding some golf cart tire tracks on one of their putting greens.

First inclination on the part of some of the members was to blame this severe breach of linksmanship on some of the uncouth reporter or photographers following the President.

But it just isn't so. There is, however, a most distinguished party who plays the course frequently and it just could be——

"BEAUTY PROBLEMS"

By James V. Bonafed

There are a few beauty problems we've never discussed in this column. And your beauty problems are ours too!

-o-

Let's talk about a very different beauty aid today. How you can conceal a hearing aid! In the past we have attended special hair fashion clinics and have developed the art of concealing hearing aids and all the equipment that goes with it. Today many women wear hearing aids that are expertly covered with a smart personalized hair style. We can even do wonders if you wear the type that requires a cord . . . make it less noticeable! We'll design a smart hair style to cover it up for you.

-o-

No hair problem is ever hopeless! If an illness or accident caused a loss of hair . . . we can solve your temporary or permanent problem with a hairpiece . . . perfectly matched and blended to your own natural hair. A visit to our salon can prove this to you. Just ask us for a private consultation . . . and your worries are over! Your beauty and confidence completely restored. And . . . if your hair loss was temporary . . . you will have an extra hair piece to wear for special occasions . . . styled and restyled to suit your needs and only you will know it's not your own hair!

-o-

If you haven't dared to try a new style . . . do! We can help you choose the look you like and design your personal copy of fashion dictates. There is one for you . . . a wide swept look . . . soft head hugging curls . . . sleek smooth sophisticated style . . . carefully shaped and designed just for you!

-o-

We let the cut dictate the amount of curl. Unless you have naturally wavy hair you'll naturally need a permanent. A short cut needs a permanent wave with authority! A meium cut calls for a firm, but gentle lotion. A longer cut . . . an almost invisible permanent for the loose, casual look! Remember, your particular beauty problem is our business. Let's talk it over.

Ruling on Stan's Game Streak

Stan the Man's consecutive playing streak in the National League will remain intact if he continues to play in every game at least until August 27. The National office has ruled that Musial's streak did not end when he failed to play in the first eight innings of a suspended game at Forbes Field Sunday. The game will be resumed at the point of suspension when the Cards return to Pittsburgh on the 27th of August. Apparently, the streak will end if Stan doesn't get into the game in the last inning. Of course, The Donora Dandy may end it himself before that date rolls around. If this terrific team player thinks he can't "put out" 100 per cent in two games, he'll sacrifice the record streak.

That softball tilt between the City League All-Stars here and the Tri-County Softball team should prove quite an attraction. It'll be played at Ninth Street Park on August 2 (Friday). Both leagues can claim some mighty fine players, the two circuits boasting the cream of the crop in Monongahela Valley softball material . . . Attention, Knot Hole gang members — Remember the August 10 game has been changed from Knot Hole Day to Little League — PONY League Day and therefore there will be no Knot Hole outing . . . The Bucs are at home for a very short home stand next Tuesday, just six games to be played at Forbes Field.

Mon-Yough Preps in State Tourney

The Mon-Yough Prep League Stars have advanced to the State playoffs and will meet the winner of the District B game between Munhall and South Hills tonight at Munhall's West Field, home of Prep League ball. Game time is 6 o'clock. Munhall is perennially one of the tougher contenders, winning two titles . . . James Wardlaw, National Director of Prep League ball, has really built that league into a nationally-recognized program on a par with Little League and the PONY organization . . . Harold Snowden, Bud Morrison and Lenny Rechichar, all of the Smithton-Jacobs Creek League have been playing great ball for the Mon-Yough nine.

Penn State is the only Eastern School ever to cop a National Collegiate wrestling team championship. The grappling sport is the "winningest" of all sports on the Penn State athletic program. . . . Al DeLuca, popular St. Vincent College grid coach, received a tough blow when informed several players (at least a half-dozen) he had counted upon for the coming grid season would not be available due to scholastic difficulties. Al, one of the finest college players ever to come out of this district, has no sympathy for the gridders. "They know full well they must maintain their academic standards. The boys who don't make it in the classroom have only themselves to blame," he says.

Jackson Ranks Among Ring's Top 'Odd-balls'

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Fame, of sorts, comes to Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson tonight — win, lose or draw against heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson—as he clinches a spot among the top five odd-balls in ringn history.

This is one certainty as the scowling, upredictable challengner faces the melancholy - featured champion under the lights at the Polo Grounds. The 5-1 odds say he's a loser and yet the Hurricane is odds-on to receive his just recognition at last.

Before the first punch is thrown he has clambered easily up among such strange sluggers of the past as "Two-Ton Tony" Galento, Max Baer, Rocky Graziano and Lew Jenkins. The rest of the field still is fighting preliminary bouts in this department.

Jackson is a child of nature addicted to Apache headbands who would seem to have qualified easily with his announcement that he'd "just as soon eat chopped meat as hamburger." But this did not suffice.

Small Omelet

The "Hurricane," you must understand, is a box-fighter who punches with a delicacy which would not damage a paper sack full of eggs. If he used a hammer, chances are you'd only manage a small omelet. So his success is predicated on attacking with the relentlessness of a berserk windmill.

Thus, every pair of blue suede shoes on the boxing beat was broken when, just before leaving his camp, Jackson announced that he was going to make a "defensive" fight and capitalize on counter-punching.

This is tantamount to Indianapolis winner Sam Hanks driving a hansom cab in Central Park; Elvis Presley playing Bach instead of rock, or Ted Williams bunting with the bases loaded.

Certainly it installs the Hurricane high among the list of those who, libel laws being what they are, may more safely be characterized as "free thinkers" in pugilism's passing pageant.

Baer was one of the most unpredictable. Finances were not his forte and it was viewed as highly hilarious when he sold 110 per cent of himself to various managers. This was rather excessive even in the days when the dollar was worth 90 cents. He gilded his reputation by beating his head against the steampipes in his training camp "to toughen myself" and, ever the extrovert when he and Primo Carnera tumbled to the canvas, put ringsiders in double-seam stitches by yelling:

"Last one up is a sissy."

"Moider Da Bum"

Galento, the little fat man who almost chained the lightning before he ran out of wind, had to come up for air and was massacred by Joe Louis, was another free soul. A physical culturist who trained on suds and stogies, his vocabulary consisted of "I'll moider da bum." He was a card.

Graziano, a swaggering ruffian, still had a certain naivete. Life was never dull around the Rock and his chief delight was a character who played the mouth organ with his nose. In this set delicacy is a place where you buy pastrami sandwiches.

Now, nobody would intimate that Jenkins was a screwball. Yet how do you describe a guy who, the day before a big money fight, was out on the highway proving he could ride a motorcycle 60 miles an hour—while standing up on the seat?

Suffice it to say that the Hurricane just blew "in."

LL Ravens 2nd Half Champs

It's the Ravens in the American Division of the local Little League. That entry copped the second half title Saturday with a 12-5 completion - of - a - suspended-game win over Park Service.

Actually that is the same score as posted in the original title and only an inning was played Saturday but in just that short time some brilliant pitching was witnessed. Paul Barton of the winners, who replaced John Pascarella, original starting hurler, fanned the three Park batters.

Gerald Francia of the winners is credited with the "big blow" of game, having blasted a homer for the Ravens.

Pascarella received credit for the victory while Ted Komatz absorbs the loss.

Tonight playoff action opens with the first games in best-of-three series. The first game shows CIO and Elks battling in the National Division and VFW and the Ravens of the American in the second tilt immediately following the 5 o'clock first game.

Tokar Shoots 68 at NCC; Pool Dedicated

BEALLSVILLE, July 29 — Andy Tokar shot a brilliant 68 to win low gross honors at Nemacolin Country Club Saturday.

Sunday the new pool was dedicated with a special ribbon-cutting ceremony and no "nitches" as in the first dedication ceremony when 110 gallons of water leaked out of the new pool.

President Jack Clark of NCC, cut the ribbon to officially open the pool after which there were special activities in keeping with the occasion.

One of the features of the weekend action was the "three Jacks and a Jill" tournament Sunday, won by the team of Mrs. John Suwak, Matt Taggart, Bob Bowers and Dr. L. Romino.

Mac House was low gross in Sunday's kickers' with a 72 Bennie Andy shot the best game of his life in Sunday's event, registering a 79.

Ozarks in Playoff Drive

Now that they have tasted playoff "meat" following a climb into fourth place Friday, the Monessen Ozarks of the Mon Valley League will be trying desperately to hold that spot.

The red-hot Ozarks, who have won three games in a row in impressive fashion, travel to Van Voorhis tonight to battle the Vans. Then on Wednesday night they were originally carded to meet West Newton here but that has been changed to Thursday night at Ninth Street Park.

Friday evening the schedule gets a little tougher with Perry hosting the Ozarks.

Only Three Remain

After this week's games only three games remain for the locals but all against rugged foes, Charleroi next Monday away, New Eagle here next Wednesday and the finale at Fayette City next Friday.

Biggest reason for the improved play of the Ozarks has been the tremendous play of Carl Crawley plus improved hurling.

Crawley, who has homered in each of his last three games, now shows seven round-trippers, two behind team leader Manager Pappy Johnson who had seven. Johnson and Crawley also have four triples each to lead in that department.

Another heavy "stickman" has been Bob Mastracci, also boasting triples and showing four homers.

Continued alert play will give the locals the title, a "permanent" playoff slot.

Two Giants Hurt

BURLINGTON, Vt. (UP) — Ron Nery, rookie tackle from Kansas State, suffered a broken bone in his hand and Emlen Tunnell, defensive back who holds the National Football League record for interceptions, sprained his right ankle during the New York Giants' two - hour Saturday scrimmage. The Giants rested Sunday after working twice daily for 10 days.

Pirates Drop Two, A One-Hitter and An 'Over-timer'

ST. LOUIS (UP) — The St. Louis Cardinals moved within a half game of first place Sunday by taking a double header from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-0 and 9-8.

Bonus hurler Von McDaniel gave up only one hit in the first game —a double by Gene Baker in the second inning. After that he retired 22 batters for his fifth victory against two losses.

The losing Pirate hurler was Vern Law, who had handed McDaniel his second defeat at Forbes Field on July 19.

In the nightcap, Joe Cunningham blasted his sixth homer of the season in the 11th inning to break an 8-8 tie and end the game. His belt into right field was the first pitch thrown by Nelson King, fourth Pirate hurler.

The Cards came from behind in the ninth to tie the score for the second time on a walk, two singles and a double.

Winning pitcher in the nightcap was Hoyt Wilhelm, who took over in the 10th inning. It was his first win against four defeats. King took the loss, his first against two victories.

Righthander Charles (Whammy) Douglas, who reports to the Pirates in St. Louis tonight, may face the Cards the first time he dons a Pirate uniform.

The one - eyed hurler was recalled Sunday from the Columbus (Ohio) Jets to shore up the ailing Buc pitching staff. His addition puts the team one man over the player limit, but the Pirates hope Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick will allow Joe Trimbe, who is scheduled for surgery Tuesday to go on the disability list.

Douglas, sporting a 10-10 record with the Jets this year, or Art Swanson will pitch in tonight's game with the Cardinals.

Big Ten Suspends Indiana Coach For One Year

CHICAGO (UP) — Indiana football coach Phil Dickens was suspended by the Big Ten for one year today for offering illegal payments to prospective athletes.

It was the most severe penalty upon an individual in conference history.

The suspension meant that Dickens will not be able to participate in coaching the Hoosiers for the 1957 season and unless the university successfully bids for his reinstatement next December, he also will miss the 1958 spring practice and recruiting.

The penalty was imposed by the conference faculty representatives at a special meeting at which President Herman B. Wells of Indiana accepted the decision and expressed his confidence in Dickens.

It was the first penalty imposed by the conference under its new rule, adopted Feb. 22, basing all aid upon need with a stipulation that no athlete may receive more than the cost of education at the institution he attends. Likewise, it was the first time a football coach has been penalized, and the second penalty in history upon a coach.

Dickens was penalized for offering prospects room, board, books, tuition, fees and a sum of money each month. Regulations permit aid only on the basis of computed need, with students contributing to their own support to the extent of their family finances, and in no event more than board, room, books, tuition and fees.

Wells said Dickens will be suspended effective Aug. 5.

Dickens came to Indiana only this year as the successor to Bernie Crimmins. He previously coached at Wyoming and brought his staff of assistants with him to Indiana. The suspension puts him on the sidelines before he has coached his first Big Ten game.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Too Much Tension

Too much tenseness at the start of your game can ruin not only your scores on the beginning holes, but also the entire round. If your starting frame of mind is tense and grim, you will tend to take your early mistakes too much to heart. You are apt to become disgusted with yourself, the golf course, and the game of golf. And so you go from bad to worse.

Far better to start with the great Walter Hagen's attitude. Hagen always expected to miss three or four shots in any round. So, if he missed them early in the game, he didn't worry. He acted, in fact, as if he was glad to get them over with.

I'm not advocating carelessness on the opening holes. But I am saying that you should begin trying your best immediately — in a relaxed sort of way.

'Easy Ed' Betus Again Low in MVCC Golf

Patterson's Plans Tonight Call For KO of 'Cane by 5th Round

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK (UP)—Floyd Patterson, making his first defense of the heavyweight crown, will try to stiffen Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson within five rounds tonight if threatening weather permits their outdoor fight at the Polo Grounds.

That's the latest word from the youngest of heavyweight champs, who is favored at 5-1 to win and at 8-5 to score a knockout.

And the latest report from the weather bureau was: "Scattered thundershowers may blow over before time for the bout"—10 p.m. e.d.t.

Little Emil Lence, the independent promoter who is challenging the power of big Jim Norris' International Boxing Club predicts 27,000 fans and a gate ranging between $300,000 and $350,000 if the bout goes on tonight; more, if the first independently promoted heavyweight title show in 20 years is delayed 24 hours. However, some of little Emil's less optimistic assistants doubt that the gate will exceed $250,000.

Tell Friends Plans

Patterson, 22, told friends today, "I'll try to take him out in five rounds to help my reputation and to lessen the chance of getting a face cut that might postpone my next defense against Pete Rademacher."

If Floyd beats lanky, 25-year-old Jackson in their return bout tonight, he will receive a $250,000 guarantee for a defense against Olympic champion Rademacher at Seattle, Wash., Aug. 22. That's more than the $175,000 guarantee for tonight's scheduled 15-rounder.

Champion and challenger came into the city from their respective training camps Sunday and took up temporary quarters in Midtown hotels.

Patterson, who now lives at Mt. Vernon, N.Y., is a lopsided favorite to beat Jackson, who now lives at St. Albans, N.Y., for many reasons.

On Impressive Streak

First, young Floyd seeks his 19th straight victory. He's on an impressive winning streak. Only one of his opponents in his last 13 bouts evaded a knockout.

The man was Jackson—in their first bout 13 months ago. But many believe the only reason the Hurricane was still on his feet at the end of their 12 rounds in Madison Square Garden was the fact that Patterson fractured his right hand in the fifth round.

Floyd wound up with a split decision over Jackson that night of June 8, 1956, when Referee Harry Kessler surprisingly voted for the Hurricane, and the two judges favored Floyd. The victory earned Patterson the right to fight ancient Archie Moore for the vacant heavyweight crown, and he belted out Moore in the fifth round at Chicago last Nov. 30.

Short Reign Possible

Because that title victory was only seven months and 29 days ago, Patterson's regime would be the shortest among heavyweight kings if the unpredictable, war-dancin' Jackson happened to upset him this time. In case of a Jackson victory, they are scheduled for a return title fight at the Polo Grounds, Sept. 16.

The champion hasn't fought since he flattened Moore, but he was very impressive in that bout and he has been impressive in training. He appears to be more explosive than ever—as he fights out of a more flat-footed stance, with less footwork and less leaping in with punches. He concentrated on a body attack as he groomed this time for long-waisted Tommy.

Jackson and his somewhat clownish flailing attack won 29 of his 35 fights, 13 by knockouts. He suffered five defeats and had one draw. Nino Valdes of Cuba was credited with stopping him in the second round on July 14, 1954—on a very questionable application of the three-knockdowns-in-one-round rule, which has been waived for tonight's bout.

Public Links Event Opens At Hershey

By ANTHONY R. CANNIFF

HERSHEY, Pa. (UP)—One hundred and fifty golfers, the cream of the nation's week-end divot-diggers, compete today in the first qualifying round of the 35th annual U. S. Public Links golf championship on the par 70 Hershey Park course.

After the second qualifying round Tuesday the field will be out to the low 64 medal scorers for the start of match pay on Wednesday in the tournament that is the national championship for the non-country club set.

Last year's winner and runner-up, Junie Buxbaum of Memphis, Tenn., a trucking firm executive, and William C. Scarborough Jr., of Jacksonville, Fla., head the field. They drew byes in the sectional qualifying tournaments held at 37 sites July 7-14 but must take part in qualifying play here.

The 36 holes of qualifying competition also will determine the inter-city play for the Warren G. Harding Trophy, won last year by Buxbaum and two Memphis mates.

Par for the difficult 6,055-yard layout, considered one of the best public courses in the nation, has been cut from 71 to 70 especially for the occasion. U.S. Golf Assn. officials reduced the par by shaving the 440-yard sixth hole from a five to a four.

Two former Publinx champs, Pittsburgh's Andy Szwedko, who copped the 1939 honors here, and 1950 winner Stanley Bielat of Yonkers, N.Y., are also in the field.

Others expected to be strong contenders are: Hans R. Turner, Seattle, a 1955 quarter-finalist, and the Garrison brothers, Art and Paul, of the host Hershey Park Club, both Pennsylvania state Publinx champions, Paul this year and in 1954, Art in 1956.

Bolt Wins Open, Berth on U. S. Ryder Cup Team

BALTIMORE (UP) — Tommy (Thunder) Bolt today reaped a double reward for holding his temper throughout the Eastern Open golf tournament — a $2,800 check for first prize and a berth on the United States Ryder Cup team.

Bolt, the Los Angeles pro often noted for his explosive personality, cracked a two-year victory drought Sunday by winning the Eastern Open with a 72-hole score of 276, four strokes better than runners-up Fred Hawkins and Bill Casper.

This was the last tournament counting for points in the competition for the 10 places on the Ryder Cup team that will meet Britain in the fall in England. Bolt, whose status had been in doubt, made the team with ease in the No. 6 slot.

Although confirmation of the squad still must come from the PGA, it almost certainly will be composed of newly-crowned PGA champion Lionel Hebert and the top nine players in the cup point standings.

Missing out were Hawkins, Art Wall, Mike Fetchick, Jay Hebert and Sam Snead.

Bolt led all the way in this tournament, breaking the course record in the opening round with an eight-under-par 64 and closing out with a 71.

Hawkins, of El Paso, Tex., and Casper, of Bonita, Calif., finished with 280. At 281 were Ford, of Mahopac, N.Y., Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, and Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill.; at 282 was Bill Collins of Grossinger, N.Y.; and at 283 were Chares Sifford of Philadelphia and Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa.

Peruvian Ahead

COLOGNE, West Germany (UP) —Alex Olmedo of Peru won the men's singles championship at Cologne's international tennis tournament Sunday with a 6-4, 6-2 victory over Trevor Fancutt of South Africa.

Von McDaniel Turns in Season's Top Hurling Job—One-Hitter

By FRED DOWN

Von McDaniel added the season's most spectacular pitching performance to his amazing achievements today while the St. Louis Cardinals added an edge in the vital "lost column" to their reasons for believing they'll come out on top in the National League's fantastic five-team race.

The 18-year-old Von, who signed a $50,000 bonus contract only six months ago, pitched a one-hitter Sunday as the Cardinals whipped the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-0 and 9-8. Gene Baker's second-inning double was the blow that deprived McDaniel of the first perfect game in modern National League history as he fanned four and did not permit another runner to reach base.

The sweep enabled the Cardinals to move within three percentage points of the first-place Milwaukee Braves, who split with the New York Giants, and left them with a 55-40 won-lost record. They have a one-game edge in the lost column on both the Braves and third-place Brooklyn Dodgers and a two-game edge in the same column on the Cincinnati Redlegs and Philadelphia Phillies.

McDaniel's victory was his fifth against two losses and his second shutout. His four previous wins were over contenders and he now has yielded only 38 hits in 57 innings while compiling a 2.68 ERA. His strikeouts outnumber his walks (supposed bugaboo of young pitchers), 28-15.

Homer Wins Nightcap

The boy was all the Cardinals required in the opener but they needed the combined efforts of three men to win the nightcap. Eddie Kasko doubled to cap a three-run ninth-inning rally that tied the score, Hoyt Wilhelm held the Pirates scoreless for the next two innings and Joe Cunningham finally broke it up with his sixth homer of the season in the 11th inning.

Johnny Antonelli pitched a seven-hitter to beat the Braves for the fourth time, 2-0, but Milwaukee gained a split when Gene Conley whipped the Giants for the third time in 10 days, 5-3. Willie Mays smashed four straight singles in the opener for the Giants while Ed Mathews' two-run, fourth-inning single was the big blow for the Braves in the second game.

The Dodgers cut Milwaukee's margin over them to a game-and-a-half when Johnny Podres scattered nine hits and Carl Furillo hit the eighth grand slammer of his major league career in a 7-2 victory over the Redlegs. It was the third time this season Podres beat the Redlegs and raised his career record against them to 9-3. Ted Kluszewski homered for Cincinnati.

Curt Simmons won his 10th game and rookie Jack Sanford his 14th as the Phillies whipped the Chicago Cubs, 3-2 and 7-1. Granny Hamner's sacrifice fly in the ninth sent over the winning run in the opener and he whacked a two-run double before Ed Bouchee exploded a three-run homer when the Phillies kayoed Dick Drott with five runs in the seventh inning of the nightcap.

White Sox Advance

The Chicago White Sox defeated the Baltimore Orioles, 4-3, and advanced within 3½ games of first place in the American League when the New York Yankees split a double-header with the Detroit Tigers. The Tigers won the opener, 6-5, but the Yankees took the nightcap, 4-3, in 15 innings. The Boston Red Sox outslugged the Cleveland Indians, 9-8, and the Kansas City Athletics won their first double-header of the year, 6-2, and 3-2, in 11 innings over the Washington Senators in the other AL games.

Larry Doby singled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning for the White Sox and rookie Bill Fischer and Dixie Howell protected the margin over the last two innings. Bonus boy Billy O'Dell suffered his fifth defeat for Baltimore despite homers by Jack Durham and Gus Triandos.

Mickey Mantle walked and scored on Bill Skowron's triple to gain the Yankees a split after the Tigers won the first game on J.W. Porter's three-run pinch double, Frank Bolling's solo home run and Lou Sleater's late-inning clutch relief pitching. Relief ace Bob Grim pitched the Yankees out of bases-filled jams in both the 14th and 15th innings to pick up his 10th victory compared to three defeats.

Democrats in Drive for Funds

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (UP)—Former President Harry S. Truman will receive starter sustaining membership card No. 1 today to launch a big nation-wide drive to finance the Democratic Party by small contributions.

The campaign opens when Paul M. Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, presents the card to the former President at the Truman Library in Independence.

Democrats said the drive is the biggest such campaign in the nation's history.

Butler said the charter sustaining membership program is the first step of a campaign to finance the Democratic Party by regular small contributions from rank and file members.

"We believe that a healthy political party must be financed by widespread grass roots contributions" Butler said.

"This drive will be followed by a door-to-door solicitation of funds on October 11-12, called Dollars for Democrats Day. It and the sustaining membership plan will be annual events."

Sustaining members will give a minimum of $10 yearly.

Invitations to become charter sustaining members are now being mailed from the Democratic National Committee in Washington.

Butler said the intensive mail campaign from Washington will be followed by mail and personal solicitation by state and local Democratic committees.

He said this is the first time a major political party has conducted a sustaining membership campaign on a national basis.

Parolee Program Proves Successful

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Parole Board announced today that 7,100 parolees under its supervision earned $8,035,356 last year.

Board Chairman Paul J. Gernert said 1956 parolees totaled about 200 less than those in 1955, but earned about one million dollars more.

Gernert said the figures illustrated "how a program of effective parole supervision and rehabilitation can assist the parolee in becoming a valuable productive citizen."

Eight Nations To Send Teams To Horse Show

HARRISBURG (UP)—Pennsylvania National Horse Show officials announced today equestrian teams of eight nations have accepted invitations to compete in international jumping events at the 1957 show opening here Oct. 19.

Executive Secretary Edward F. Kramer said acceptances have been received from Argentina, Chile, Venezuela, Mexico, England, Canada, Ireland and the U.S. teams.

Invitations to teams of foreign nations are extended through the U. S. State Department in conjunction with the national horse show at Madison Square Garden and the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto. The international teams make a swing of the three shows.

The addition of two new South American teams, those of Argentina and Venezuela, and the unexpected return of the Chileans would set up a record field. Chile usually allows several years to lapse between North American competition.

The Irish teams will be the only military unit in competition. All other nations have turned to civilian teams since horses have virtually disappeared from military organizations.

Warm and Humid Air Dominates Weather Scene

By UNITED PRESS

Warm and humid air flowing into Pennsylvania today was expected to dominate the state through Tuesday and bring general overcast conditions with scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers both days.

Temperatures today will range from the low 80's in more northerly sections of the state to the middle and upper 80's in the south and southeast.

Today was expected to have variable cloudiness, warm and very humid, but will be relieved somewhat by 10 to 20 miles per hour winds accompanying thundershowers.

Continued cloudy conditions were expected tonight with temperatures ranging from the near 60's in the mountains and higher elevations to the middle 60's and low 70's elsewhere across the state.

An area of low pressure centered in North Carolina, and an eastward moving low pressure cell in the Mississippi Valley were epected to move into Pennsylvania on Wednesday lowering temperatures and humidity to more comfortable levels.

No Motorboat Edict Follows Runaway Scare

ERIE, Pa. (UP) — Motorboats will not be allowed to come within 300 feet of the Lake Erie shoreline at the Presque Isle Peninsula, Michael Wargo, superintendent of Presque Isle State Park, said today.

Wargo's edict was handed down after a run-away motorboat endangered hundreds of bathers Sunday afternoon.

The incident occurred when the operator of a motorboat towing a water skier fell overboard as the craft made a tight turn. The pilotless boat began circling into the bathing area. Only quick action by life guards, who ran along the beach warning bathers of the danger, prevented an accident.

Guard Billy Green managed to hop aboard the runaway craft from another boat and shut off the motor.

Grass Roots Movement

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP) — A small weed with a blue flower has appeared in Illinois, in full defiance of Horace Greeley's advice. Phlox gracilis came from the West—probably by auto, Dr. Glen S. Winterringer of the state museum said.

Kottons to Kitty

CHICAGO (UP)—Owner Walter Goetzinger said his pet, Hans, literally may be a lowly dog, but figuratively he's a Sir Walter Raleigh. Goetzinger said dachshund Hans took a blanket from his sleeping basket and put it where kitty, another pet, could give birth to four kittens in comfort.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear wife, mother, grandmother, and great grandmother, Mrs. Dora Stanish, who died four years ago today, July 29, 1953
As God's golden sun showers
Mother's grave today,
Our hearts are filled with longing,
A prayer to hear her say
That she is watching o'er us
And keeping us from wrong,
And though she was taken from us
We know 'twon't be for long
Til we join her up in Heaven
Where she'll part from us no more,
And we'll see her smile so sweetly
As we did in days of yore
Take her in Thine arms, dear Lord
And ever let her be
A messenger of love
Between our hearts and Thee.
Sadly missed by husband, sons, daughters, sons in-law, grand children and great-grandchildren

In loving memory of our dear mother, mother-in-law and grandmother Mrs. Margaret Boyer, who passed away 12 years ago today, July 29, 1945
Darling mother how we miss you,
No one will ever know,
Of the many heartaches and sorrows
As the days come and go.
You left with us a memory
Which clings around your name.
Just how brave and true you were
Until this day you died
The flowers we place upon your grave
May wither and decay
But the love we hold for you dear mother
Will never fade away.
We love you more and always
And miss you more each day.
Your name is always mentioned
In many, many ways.
Sadly missed by her son, Thomas, daughter in-law, Betty, and grandchildren, Tommy and Karen

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Celeste Tretter, who died four years ago today, July 29, 1953.
Sad and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all,
A bitter grief; a shock severe,
It was to part with one so dear
Dearest father, how we miss you,
Since from earth you passed away,
And our hearts are aching sorely,
As we think of you today.
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.
Sadly missed by Wife and Children

Elephant Stirs Up Activity

CHESTERTON, Ind. (UP)—Residents of this "sleepy" Indiana community breathed easier today because Babe, a 7,000-pound elephant, was back on her leash again.

The venerable, 61-year-old lady went on a six-hour romp before she was captured and returned early Sunday.

Few people were able to get much sleep during the night. You just can't ignore an elephant on your front lawn or stomping about in the garden.

The excitement began Saturday night when the elephant roamed away from a Chesterton supermarket where she was stationed as a publicity stunt. Her attendant disappeared at the same time.

So "Big Babe" wandered off, and it wasn't long before most of the town was aware of it.

60 Join Posse

A posse of 60 residents and three policemen took up the chase. They had no trouble following her trial along streets and alleys to he northeast edge of town. But hey were wary of getting too close to Babe, as she resented the chase and trumpeted menacingly.

Outside of town, Babe found a 10-acre field of soybeans to trample, and turing of that, ambled into a woodland on the farm of Lon Snyder. There her attention was diverted by some succulent twigs and the posse closed in.

Several men grabbed the elephant's dangling chain and staked it to the ground. Meanwhile, Babe's owner, C. A. Vernon, St Louis, Mo., arrived and led Babe back to the grocery store.

Wide - awake residents were treated to a one elephant parade as the triumphant searchers returned. Since the midnight ramble made Babe thirsty, they stopped at the fire station where firemen turned hoses on her.

But Babe got in the parting shot. She squirted the water back at them through her trunk.

Australia is often called the land of living fossils. It is the home of the world's only egg laying mammals and most of the surviving marsupials.

Movie Making not Easy, Producer Says

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—"The Old Man and the Sea" is making an older man out of the producer who's filming the movie version of Ernest Hemingway's best-selling book

Spencer Tracy, who stars in this unique story supported only by a little boy and a big fish, today is rowing his boat in the comfortable seclusion of a 750,000 gallon artificial ocean on Stage 5 at Warner Studio

Aline Mosby

Originally the plan was to film the entire picture at sea but the storms behind the camera on Leland Hayward's production for Warner Studio were mightier than any in Hemingway's book about an old man trying to conquer a marlin

Two years ago Hayward began work on the project, and a year and a half ago the company went to Cuba.

"It was the toughest picture in the world to shoot," said the frank-talking Hayward.

"There were 125 people in the company, just waiting. In the morning the sea would be too rough. In the afternoon, no sun or no clouds. It was agony.

It sounds easy to film sharks, but we couldn't find any.

Fred Zinneman (the director), Tracy and I fought like cats and dogs. Fred wanted to make the film completely at sea. Spence always felt the location was wrong

"We tried to shoot Spence in his rowboat, but the tides, the wind, everything went wrong"

Finally Zinneman quit. As Hayward says, "Fred just gave up."

"I didn't know what to do. Jack Warner had the guts to say go ahead and finish it Otherwise we'd be throwing away all the money we'd spent. Tracy promised to come back and finish the picture any time we asked him to. He's stubborn, as I am."

At this point Warners had dropped nearly two million dollars—and had only a few minutes of usable film.

New Director Hired

But a new director, John Sturges, was hired Camera crews finally found photogenic shark and marlin in Mexican waters and near Hawaii where, producer Hayward sighs, the company should have gone in the first place.

Fortunately the little Cuban boy who acted with Tracy in the first disastrous attempt grew only one-eighth of an inch in 1½ years says Hayward.

"We were scared to death," he said "If the boy had changed—that's all we needed!"

The budget has soared to 5 million dollars, meaning the picture has to gross 10 million dollars to make a profit. Hayward's last movie, "The Spirit of St. Louis" cost six million dollars "and is not doing too well."

Statistics Show Victory Of Vaccine Over Polio

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Last year the United States had the lowest incidence rate of infantile paralysis for any single year since 1947. The rate was 9.2 cases per 100,000 population. For the nation at large, it was not a polio year.

Chicago, on the other hand, had the second highest incidence rate (29.2 cases per 100,000 population) for any year since 1911 when we began keeping poliomyelitis records.

Yet during this same 12-month period, Chicago had one of the lowest fatality rate (3.2 deaths per 100 cases reported) in the history of polio record keeping.

Throughout a 16-week polio outbreak last summer, the Chicago Board of Health and private physicians administered a total of 1,470,520 doses of Salk vaccine in an effort to stem the tide of polio and thus had an opportunity to conduct a pilot study on the effectiveness of the vaccine.

Let me tell you what we learned during the first mass test of this new vaccine under emergency conditions.

First and most important, of course, the upsurge did not reach epidemic proportions.

Our yardstick for measuring the seriousness of an outbreak defines an epidemic rate as 35 or more cases per 100,000 population.

There were 1,111 cases of polio reported in Chicago last year. Of this total, 835 persons developed paralytic poliomyelitis.

What value did the Salk vaccine have? Here are the statistics.

Of the 835 persons who developed paralytic polio, 285 of them did receive some Salk vaccine.

However, 200 of these persons had received only one inoculation, 85 of them had only two injections But not a single person who had the recommended three doses of vaccine developed paralytic poliomyelitis.

I know no one likes to read a lot of statistics; but these are important to the welfare of your children and, indeed, the welfare of the entire country.

Most World Experts Believe There Will Be no Third War

(This is the first of a series of articles by the United Press military affairs writer, who has spent the past month in Europe, the Mediterranean and North Africa sizing up the free world's Western defenses.)

By CHARLES CORDDRY

PARIS (UP) — "There ain't gonna be no war."

That was the way British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan put it two years ago, when he was foreign secretary.

It still looks like a good prediction to many experts.

Touring Western defense areas in Europe and the Mediterranean and talking with officials, military men and plain people, you find the odds are on continued Communist trouble-making by all methods short of armed hostilities.

There are too many uncertainties, of course, for military leaders to put themselves on record with any flat forecast that war will be averted. There always is a chance, with giant forces facing each other, that an accidental spark could touch off a conflagration.

There is the possibility of East German uprisings with West Germans trying to help and North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces becoming involved. There is what Allied headquarters here calls a new "threat" in the appearance of Russian ships and submarines in the Mediterranean.

Gaps Still Present

There still are gaps in NATO deterrent power, holes in the ground force shield on the Central European front.

But in 6,600 miles of travel in nine countries, from London to Istanbul and from America's big base in Libya to the barbed wire at the Czech border, this reporter found no official or military leader who thought Russia would deliberately start a war now.

The overriding reason is simple. An attack on NATO—on the 4,000-mile line from Norway to Turkey and on North America—could mean the death of the Soviet Union at the hands of air retaliatory forces with nuclear power beyond measure.

The Russians know that. There is no profit, just suicide, for them in a global war and no assurance that a little war would stay little.

Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme Allied commander in Europe, says the West's retaliatory power is "absolute" and can be kept that way regardless of the size of Russian military formations. He says the free world now has so many air bases that it is a practical "impossibility" for Russia to destroy them all simultaneously.

"Regardless of what destruction they can do us," he told the U.S. Congress last month, "they also are going to be destroyed" if they start a war.

Can Destroy Anything

Norstad tells questioners at his headquarters here that the advent of long-range ballistic missiles will not change present deterrent concepts. The West will be in the "same relative position" as now —able to hit "where and when we choose" and "destroy anything of real military significance" in Russia.

The attitude in NATO military ranks is one of confidence and restrained optimism — with heavy emphasis on the need to keep on strengthening the defense machine until there can be a foolproof disarmament agreement.

"If we continue to follow the course we are now following," Norstad says, "war in the next few years is most unlikely. I believe that time is playing on our side and that there is a very good chance, and the chance will continue to get better, that we will maintain peace and avoid war."

NATO strategy—"the course we are now following" — is intended first and foremost to prevent war. That is the purpose of every military man involved, from the armored cavalryman riding border patrol at the Iron Curtain to the B52 hydrogen bomber commander on a U.S. air base. All are visible signs to the Reds to keep their heads down.

NATO resolved in 1954 to base its defense on nuclear weapons and cut its previously unattainable "conventional" force goals from 90 divisions for the central front to 30 and from 9,000 aircraft to about 6,000. Strategy or deterring war is built around a double defense in Europe — ground and air. It calls for:

USSAC Is Key Unit

1. A "sword" of retaliatory air forces able to strike all elements of Russian power on short notice. Key unit is the U.S. Strategic Air Command which can hit the Soviets from any point on the compass. Other units are Britain's rapier-like bomber command and the ever-growing atomic power within Norstad's command itself. The U.S. Air Force in Europe, for example, probably have well over 400 aircraft able to carry atomic weapons and the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean now can strike a modest number of atomic targets.

2. A "shield" of conventional ground, air and sea elements pressed close to the Iron Curtain—representing as many NATO nations as possible and serving as constantly visible evidence of free-world determination to resist aggression. These forces, too, are to have limited atomic capability in the form of tactical missiles, artillery shells and small bombs. U.S. units already are so equipped.

The need for the ground force elements of the shield has become the subject of a big controversy in Europe and England, in view of the immense deterrent power of the retaliatory air forces.

Norstad, first air general to head Atlantic pact forces, has found his toughest problem is explaining the need for the Army forces and he has become one of their most ardent supporters since he succeeded U.S. Army Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther last November.

SALLY'S SALLIES

"Is this why they called you 'Sleepy' in college?"

Auto Industry Will Regulate Steel Making

CLEVELAND (UP)—Automobile designers and ammufacturers will indirectly regulate steel market activity for the remainder of 1957, Steel Magazine predicted today.

The weekly publication said public reception of the new model cars will point the way for steel production totals, which last week slipped another 1.5 points to 79.5 per cent of rated capacity.

Steel producers so far have had little indication as to what requirements will be for the 1958 model cars, Steel said. But present automotive acquisitions are reported sufficient only for completion of the 1957 schedules.

The metalworking magazine reported that most steel market observers are confident active fall and winter sales will produce a sharp revival in automotive requirements — particularly from September through December.

Smallest July

Last week's output amounted to 2,035,000 net tons, and July totals will be the smallest for any nonstrike month since February of 1955, Steel said.

Appliance producers are currently stocked with low steel inventories. This segment is expected to show a substantial gain to meet general increases in demand the weekly predicted.

For most other products, availability of steel supplies is expected to exceed demand. Facilities expansion in structurals and plates has increased capacity, thus reducing the likelihood that supply conditions will be tight over the coming months.

Demand for galvanized sheets is reported off substantially, but some makers say volume is not down as much as they had anticipated. The magazine noted a shift in types of galvanized products—mostly away from roofing and farm markets to newer air conditioning and eating sources.

Revising Schedules

Steel producers are reported still revising price schedules in line with boosts initiated earlier this month by U.S. Steel Corp. Steel's arithmetic composite on finished quantities is reported stabilized at $146.19.

Scrap prices continue to ease, with the magazine's composite on steelmaking grades dropped another 33 cents to $54. It was the fourth consecutive week in which steelmaking grades had showed a decline.

The metalworking weekly noted that the general business outlook for 1957 will place total somewhere around those of 1956, perhaps slightly better.

Factors bolstering expectations of a good year include: Better first-half yearly earnings reported by nine major steelmakers; a six per cent gain in gross national product over similar period for 1956; and a general rise in the industry's industrial production index over last year's corresponding period.

Lese Majeste

LONDON (UP) — Three ladies drove up to Buckingham Palace in a hired Rolls Royce to sign the visitors' book. As they were leaving, they climbed into what they thought was their car. They neglected to notice that it didn't have a license plate — indicating Queen Elizabeth's official car. "This is the royal car," the driver said to the embarrassed ladies.
